LARGEST STEEL INDUSTRY CONFERENCE OPENS IN PITTSBURGH ON MONDAY

David Burritt, President and Chief Executive Officer, United States Steel Corporation, to Address Attendees at AISTech 2019

PITTSBURGH, 29 April 2019 — AISTech 2019, North America's largest annual steel conference and exposition, opens on Monday, 6 May, at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center, Pittsburgh, Pa., USA.

In addition to more than 500 technical presentations and a three-day exposition with nearly 550 companies, there are two major media events:

David Burritt, president and chief executive officer, United States Steel Corporation, will deliver the keynote address, "Steelmaking for the Next Generation," at the annual President's Award Breakfast at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, 7 May. Burritt and other steel executives will host a question-and-answer session for the media immediately following the President's Award Breakfast.

The AISTech Town Hall Forum will take place on Wednesday, 8 May, at 10 a.m. A panel of the industry's top executives from Nucor Corp., Steel Dynamics Inc., EVRAZ, HarbisonWalker International and U. S. Steel will share their perspectives on the state of the steel industry and the evolution of high-tech manufacturing. They'll also discuss the ways in which the industry is working to meet the needs of modern society and offer a few insights into what the future holds for steel.

To reserve your seat at the AISTech 2019 President's Award Breakfast, Media Question-and-Answer Session or the Town Hall Forum, please complete the online press registration form or contact Stacy Varnecky.
